

STOP THE PENNEAST PIPELINE

The PennEast Pipeline Company LLC has announced plans to build a 105-mile natural gas pipeline that would stretch from Luzerne County, PA to Mercer County, NJ and cross under the Delaware River.

Pipeline Impacts and Issues

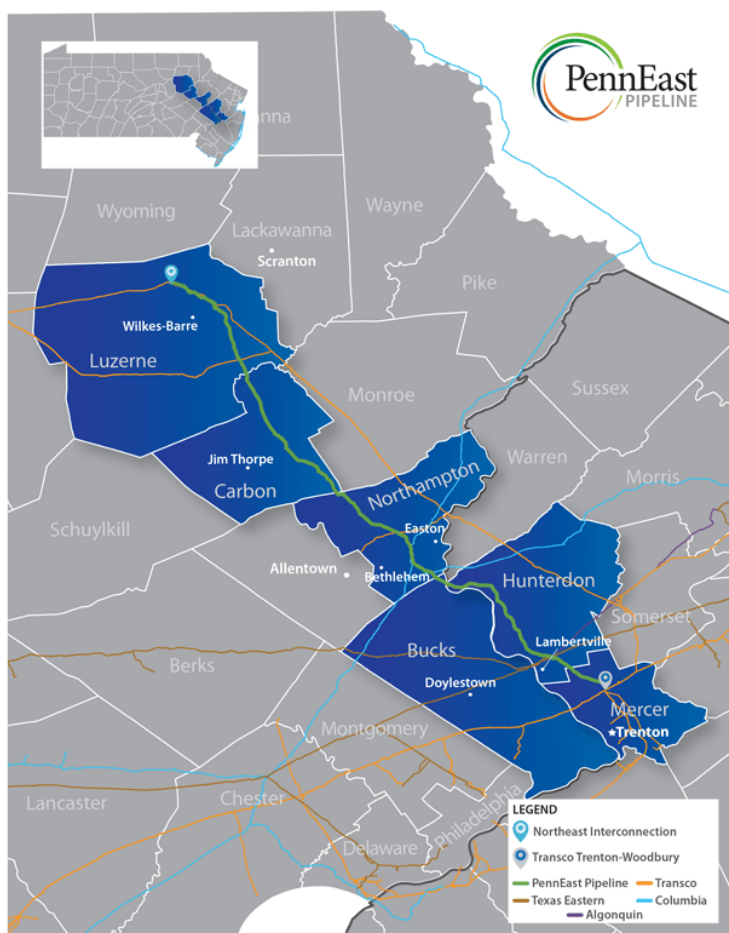

- Pipelines carry risk of catastrophic explosions or spills.
- Compressor Stations along pipeline routes emit toxic VOCs and methane.
- Pipelines fragment forests and threaten waterways under which they run.
- Local governments have no say in pipeline siting.
- Eminent Domain is legal under federal pipeline rules.
- Pipelines on private properties can reduce their value.
- Pipelines are vulnerable to corrosion and must be maintained in perpetuity.

Interstate pipelines are regulated by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC), a rubberstamp commission. The time to fight the pipeline is NOW before PennEast files its application with FERC.

The PennEast pipeline is a project of UGI Energy and its partners.

UGI was the company responsible for the explosion in Allentown, PA that killed five, including an infant, and leveled eight homes. The company was fined for several safety violations. The company had been receiving warnings since 1976. Prior to the 2011 explosion, three people had been killed, 23 had been injured, and 11 homes had been damaged or destroyed.

What YOU Can Do...

- Get involved in Concerned Citizens Against the Pipeline
- Sign and circulate our petition
- Attend public meetings and recruit your friends and neighbors to join you.
- Call on your municipal board or council to pass resolutions opposing the pipeline.
- Call and email your county and state elected officials.
- Write letters to the editor.
- Put signs in your lawn expressing your opposition.
- Say NO if a surveyor arrives to survey your property! Don't sign ANYTHING without consulting an attorney.
- Start a spreadsheet of listing property owners who have been contacted by UGI, one of its partners, or a surveyor.
